size of an array in react So I have an array of objects. I'd like the size of this array to be reflected when the state changes. How do I do this? Is there a react hooks way of doing it? A: You can add a watch on your array state. It will trigger the value of array state to be reactive when it changes. So you need to change your state handler like: //... watch: { array() { //watch array state } } //... A: It's a bit of a hack, but you can use useContext and wrap that in a function as a useCallback. const [arraySize, setArraySize]

= useContext(ArrayContext); function useArraySize() { return useCallback((array) => array.length, [array]); } This will update the the arraySize whenever the array or length changes. However, it's not really recommended. The actual question is how to get the array's length, so if you're interested in that part, check this out.
