The development of the pneumoperitoneum is dependent on the distance and size of the tumor metastases to the lung. The pneumoperitoneum may be a valuable non-specific marker of the metastases to the lung.Comparative analysis of respiratory impedance and breathing pattern during spontaneous and passive respiration in healthy male subjects. The objective of this study was to compare the relative contribution of airway, chest wall and lung impedances of inspiration and expiration during spontaneous and passive respiration. The resistance and reactance measured by a rapid perturbation technique were significantly lower during passive respiration. In particular, the resistance was 1.2 times higher during passive expiratory flow than in the spontaneous condition, while the reactance was 2.1 times higher in passive expiration. During passive respiration the resistive and inertive effects of the chest wall, the resistance of the lungs and airway were comparable. The extent of "active" respiratory work during passive expiratory flow was 5.6 kJ min(-1) and during spontaneous breathing 12.6 kJ min(-1). During spontaneous breathing a quasi-steady state was reached after about 40 s, while active expiration may take more than 30 s. After 60 s passive respiration had improved by 28% for tidal volume and by 27% for the minute ventilation.President Donald Trump talked about his plans to expand the U.S. military's "space force" in a space policy speech Thursday, saying the service branch will become "an expeditionary force that can operate virtually anywhere in the solar system." The president also announced that the space military branch would develop "state-of-the-art weapons to defeat rogue nations, rogue states or terror groups that are using space-based weapons," as well as "counter-
