I am running through a tutorial step by step on how to connect pandas to Oracle, but the Python interpreter reports: >>> df_view = pd.read_sql_query('select * from session') Traceback (most recent call last): File "", line 1, in File "/Users/jesse/Documents/experiments/practice/pandas/sqr/python/lib/python2.7/site-packages/pandas/__init__.py", line 10, in __init__ lib = {api: module_api}[api] KeyError: 'Cx_Oracle' I have the cx_oracle module installed but the import fails. I am new to this, so is it because I am missing some component? A: You are probably missing a DLL file. cx_Oracle is being deprecated because Oracle will not continue supporting it (see the announcement). This means that cx_Oracle will stop working in the next releases of Python. That's why it fails to import. The cx_Oracle homepage says that you need this file in order to use cx_Oracle. You can download this file from here. Observations on chronic and intermittent recurrent hives: a case report. I have tried for hours to find a way to compare how the button was clicked, and then the animation. I have read the documentation about the AnimationTimeline. I guess it is a normal timeline, but I do not know how to retrieve the information and compare it. A: You can get the timestamp of the animation using Timeline.getCurrentTime But then you can't use a timeline to see if you clicked the button or not.
